PAINTSVILLE

Seven to Pen.

The Johnson Circuit Court adjourned Saturday after having been in session for 30 days. During the month may cases were disposed of. The grand jury was in session almost four weeks and returned more than eight hundred indictments, most of which were for selling, buying, giving and making moonshine whisky.

Seven were sent to the penitentiary, one for life and six for from one to three years for robbery.

Johnson county juries applied at this term of the court the remedy that will stop lawlessness in the county, strict enforcement of the law violations.

Hung Jury.

The case of Heber Kirk, charged with conspiracy in the killing of Della Harmon on Daniels creek more than a year ago, resulted in a hung jury in the Johnson Circuit Court last week.

Young Kirk was arrested more than one year ago by Martin Wells and Della Harmon, charged with deserting from the army. As he was being brought from Daniels creek section his brother, Ike Kirk, killed Wells and later killed Harmon, released his brother and they both made their escape. Young Kirk was arrested in Virginia a few weeks ago and brought back for trial.

He claimed that he had no connection with the killing and that he was not in position to see Harmon when he was engaged in a shooting battle with his brother, Ike Kirk.

Ike Kirk has not yet been captured.

A few days ago she suffered a partial paralytic stroke from which she never recovered. She was a daughter of the late Jim Davis and a member of one of the county's best and largest families.

She leaves a husband who has been in poor health for a number of years, one son, Dr. Tobe Vaughan, of Jenkins, and four daughters, Mrs. E. M. Clay, Mrs. Stanley Temple, Mrs. E. M. Brown and Miss Mary Vaughan, all of whom were with her during her illness.

Gets Life Term.

Elbert Dye, charged with the killing of Police Chief James Melvin on Slate Branch last year when officers and moonshiners engaged in a battle in which two officers were killed and Pale McKenzie and Manuel Fitzpatrick were shot, was tried in the Johnson Circuit Court last week and given a life sentence in the penitentiary.

The case of Dye attracted much attention and large crowds were in attendance during the trial. He was brought back from Florida two weeks ago where he had fled after the killing.

Dye on the witness stand confessed to the killing the United States Marshal, J. H. Reynolds, who he said was shooting Pale McKenzie, but said he left the house from which he was shooting before Melvin was killed.
